Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

2. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Bu (US 6,599,142 B2). Regarding claim 1, the reference discloses an I/O expansion system comprising a female connector with housing 1 for operative connection to a baseboard and an add-in card 5 having a male connector 512 on a first edge for receipt by the female connector and a notch 50 for receipt of a retention formation 43 of the female connector wherein it further includes a carriage part 40 movable along the length of the female connector and providing support for the retention formation.

Regarding claim 4, wherein the retention formation is pivotable between an operative position in which the retention formation is within the notch on the add-in card and acts to retain the add-in card in the female connector and an inoperative position in which the retention formation is free of the notch on the add-in card and the add-in card can be removed from the female connector and wherein it further includes an arm connected with the retention formation for pivoting of the retention formation between operative and inoperative positions.

Regarding claim 5, the retention formation is hook-shaped.

Regarding claim 6, the carriage part includes an upwardly extending arm and the retention formation is an inwardly extending protrusion from the upwardly extending arm and wherein the upwardly extending arm is resiliently deformable and the retention formation has a cam surface on its upper side such that when the add-in card is inserted into the female connector the upwardly extending arm bends outwardly to permit the retention formation to ride over a leading edge of the notch and then into the notch to retain the add-in card in the female connector

Regarding claim 7, the female connector includes a housing 2 which supports a plurality of electrical contacts and the co-operating lock formations spaced apart along the length of the female connector are provided on an outer surface of the housing and wherein the carriage part is substantially U-shaped.

Regarding claims 9-10, please refer to the above rejection.
